PB gives people real power to make real decisions over real money.

2.2 Project Details

Services

Overall goals and objectives	To collect ideas and get participation from as many underrepresented community members as possible to maximize their voices in the City's Participatory Budgeting process. The City seeks a minimum of 250 ideas submitted and 10,000 votes cast from Philadelphians with an emphasis on ideas and votes coming from communities identified by the Re-Imaging Philadelphia Steering Committee. The Steering Committee is comprised of a group of residents who applied to participate, community members on City advisory boards, and City employees from relevant departments, boards, and commissions. Together they have worked to guide the City's Participatory Budgeting pilot project. The Steering Committee elected to facilitate a process that would engage as many people as possible within the City of Philadelphia - anyone who would be interested in The People's Budget process should be included in outreach, as appropriate for each phase. Given the potential scope of outreach and engagement across the city, the Steering Committee decided that outreach generally should focus on engaging community members in communities of most need (e.g., have not benefited from capital investments in recent years) and communities most impacted by deindustrialization, redlining, the War on Drugs, overcriminalization, poverty, high rates of COVID-19, and other factors.
